SIMPLE LOTIONS THAT PREVENT WRINKLING

Jordan Almonds, Pure Glycerin and Cucumber Creams Are Inexpensive and Very Effective.

It is easier to prevent wrinkles than to get rid of them, and if women would remember this there would be fewer lined faces and much of the effect of age would be kept away.

As a part of this preservative treatment nourish the skin—feed it daily to keep the flesh from becoming soft and the skin dried. Water is one of the great absorbents of tissue strength, and, broadly, every time the face is cleaned with it there should be an application to supply the natural fats that have been taken away.

Many women's objection to using cold cream on the face—that it has a tendency to cause the growth of superfluous hair—is precisely this basis of truth: If there is predisposition to superfluous growth, fats will increase it if used in excess. Therefore something should be chosen that will nourish and at the same time contain little grease. Chemically pure glycerin is not harmful, although an inferior grade may be. That used for the complexion should be a complexion preservative. Cucumber is inexpensive and one of the best things that can be used. A cucumber cream has special virtues and is made from the vegetable juice.

Extracting Cucumber Juice. The method of extracting the liquid is always the same, and it is better to make a small quantity at a time, to have it always fresh. The vegetable is carefully washed and sliced, peel and all. It is then put into a saucepan, with just enough water to cover, and is gently simmered until the mass is mushy. An hour is none too long for this, the secret of having the best juice being in having all the strength extracted without allowing the liquid to boil away. When cold it is squeezed through muslin and then run through a fine strainer. Cucumber essence is made by adding an equal quantity of high-proof alcohol to cucumber juice.

A cream highly recommended as a face builder and skin refiner is made of two ounces of sweet almond oil, five ounces of cucumber juice and one and one-half ounces of the essence, an eighth of an ounce of castile soap reduced to a powder and one-third of a dram of tincture of benzoin.

Put Ingredients in Jar.

The soap and essence should be put into a quart preserving jar and tightly covered to stand for twelve hours at least. During the time it should be shaken more or less constantly. The cucumber juice is added when the soap is dissolved, and the liquid is then turned into a basin. Into this first the almond oil and then the benzoin is gradually added, whipping all the time with a silver fork. The mixture when complete should be a creamy liquid. It is best put into several small bottles, those not in use being tightly corked. It should be shaken before applying. This lotion dries into the skin when well rubbed on. It may be applied morning, night and through the day, being used as a substitute for cold cream.

An astringent mixture of cucumber is to add a teaspoonful of tincture of benzoin to two ounces of the juice, rubbing this in after applying cold cream. This is to be regarded as a bleach and astringent, and not as a tissue builder.

PEPTONIZING MILK IMPORTANT PROCESS

PEPTONIZING milk is a process that every young mother should understand, because not infrequently after an illness where baby's digestion has been seriously affected prepared food is ordered.

To peptonize milk strong heat, pancreatic acid extract and bicarbonate of soda are necessary.

For a pint of milk fifteen grains of bicarbonate of soda and five of pancreatic extract are required. They are mixed in half a cupful of milk, and this is added to the pint, stirring and blending.

This work is best done in a covered preserve jar, which is then placed in a kettle of water at 115 degrees Fahrenheit. The kettle should be tightly covered to keep the temperature the same, and it should stand at 115 for two hours. Should it be modified, all the ingredients, excepting the bicarbonate of soda, should be added.

Standing in heat for two hours completely peptonizes milk. That which is only partly done need not stay in the kettle of water longer than fifteen or twenty minutes. To prevent its going through the whole process later it is safer to scald it at the end of fifteen minutes, thus stopping all action of the acid and soda.

That which has been wholly treated has a bitter taste, but it is not disagreeable to a little baby, and an older one is simply obliged to become accustomed to it. Partly peptonized milk has really no flavor.

When baby is to be put back to his regular food, unpeptonized, the change must be gradual. This is done by lessening the amount of powder and soda, and shortening the time the fluid remains in hot water.

To put baby on this food without a physician's orders is a great mistake, for it is capable eventually of paralyzing his digestive organs through inaction.

Beehive Hats Are Effective Models.

THE hat with a beehive crown is new, and as the brim is a sensible width the hat will be more generally becoming than some of the new styles.

Only those who are quite sure of the becomingness of such a style should attempt it, for on the wrong person this kind of hat looks like a model worn ten years ago.

The trimming that is used is very much the same as those of long ago, for masses of flowers or ribbons are arranged high in topknot fashion.

WAY ONE MAY UTILIZE THE OLD EMPTY TINS

THERE is a use for everything, and every empty tin has many uses apart from the generally accepted ones of receptacles for buttons, nails and odds and ends.

An empty coffee tin is excellent to replace a sponge bag when traveling. A pound tin will hold a nail brush, flannel and sponge, and you will find it cheap and waterproof. If you add a coat of enamel, the sponge tin becomes quite decorative, but remember to leave a plain piece of tin at the top, as otherwise the coat of paint will make the lid fit too tightly.

Strap this make capital little flower pots when artistically enameled, and fill up dark corners admirably. Flat sided mustard tins are invaluable for decoration. They must be painted dark oak inside and out, care having been taken to ascertain if they are watertight. Being flat, they can be nailed into otherwise impossible corners and are hardly discernible from the actual woodwork. Flowers and moss last wonderfully in these tins.

Another idea for an empty tin is to use it for a bottle tidy. Some medicines, particularly those containing oil, are apt, when set down, to leave an unsightly mark. Keeping the bottle in a tin obviates this, and, after taking a dose, the medicine itself remains hidden until the "next time."

Tins can also be adapted for corner wall decorations in rooms by joining three enameled ones together and utilizing them for the display of tall grasses, ferns and long-stemmed flowers.

Select the tins and bore holes in them near the tops through which run and twist the wire into firmly together, twisting the wire into small loops to hang about. It is as well as discarding them with wire near the bottom, as it will prevent any possible unsteadiness, says Woman's Life.

You need not use tins of any one size—tall ones look well at the back and short ones in front. The enameled depends on your own taste, and with a little skill as well in painting, charming results are obtained.

Demi-Season Red Costumes.

Claret colored cloth suits are very much in evidence on the avenue. Straw hats repeat the same shade, but are relieved with white wings in profusion, which produce becoming results, whether matrons or maidens are wearing the color—Vogue.

WATER IS INTOXICANT

"AQUAMANIA" AS DANGEROUS AS ALCOHOL, SAYS SCIENTIST.

CHICAGO, June 2.—Water intoxication, induced by too copious use of water, externally or internally, was discussed by Dr. L. D. Mason, vice president of the American Society for the study of industry, alcohol and drug neurosis, as a menace as dangerous as overindulgence in alcoholic drinks.

Dr. Mason, a leading physician and philanthropist of Brooklyn, delegate to the American Medical Association, addressed luncheon of Washington Home on "Why Men Drink."

"I have a friend who is a victim of aquamania," he said. "He spends hours in a bath tub and drinks so much water he has reduced the solids of his body and worked serious injury to himself. Many men and women drink too much water and are victims of that form of intoxication."

"We are all creatures of habit. Our best men and women are susceptible to habit."

"Tea and coffee drinkers also generally are intemperate. They keep themselves constantly under the influence of these stimulants, to the injury of sight and other senses."

"Cigars are a narcotic. Men who pride themselves upon abstinence from liquor carry one in their mouth all day, or a pipe when they go to bed."

"Santals are springing up everywhere. There never is a paucity of patients."

Launch Gregory at Boatyard.

The steel hull launch Gregory, belonging to A. F. Gregory of this city, is at Deans boatyard at Alexandria to be cleaned and painted in preparation for pleasure cruising on the river during the summer. She has just completed a charter with the United States fish commission service as a dispatch boat between this city and the Bryans Point station of the commission. The Gregory, it is stated, will take a long cruise on Chesapeake bay during the summer months.

Power Launch Stella Repaired.

The power launch Stella, belonging to Capt. J. H. Nicholson of this city, hauled out at the boathouse at the foot of 9th street southwest for an overhauling and painting, was put overboard the latter part of last week. She made a trip to Colonial Beach and return, with a party aboard, Saturday last. The Stella will make frequent trips to the lower river with Capt. Nicholson and his family and friends aboard during the summer.

CHILD'S OVERALLS

Paris Pattern No. 2445.

All Seams Allowed.

Dark blue, brown, green or tan denim is usually chosen to develop these little all-cover garments, which protect the child from the dust and dirt while playing out of doors. If made of blue or tan, the straps which pass over the shoulders and hold the garment in place are of bright red denim, the shaped pieces at the front, back and sides, being of similar material. The back is made in two ways, either extending to the waist line, or above it, according to taste, and the right front is ornamented with a small square patch pocket. The pattern is in 5 sizes—1 to 5 years. For a child of 5 years the overall requires 2 yards of material 27 inches wide, or 1 1/2 yard 36 inches wide; as illustrated, a yard of contrasting material 27 inches wide.

Price of pattern, 10 cents.
